

Leveraging SpringCM for the Enterprise

Reimagine business processes by automating documents so work flows.

“SpringCM can solve top CLM challenges and through its technology, we can also integrate a genuinely unique enterprise content management system. No other vendor on the planet can do that.”

Victor Rios
Chief Information Officer
and Chief Digital Officer

Victor Rios knows a thing or two about technology

He’s the Chief Information Officer (CIO) and Chief Digital Officer (CDO) of Valvoline, and the former CIO of Johnson & Johnson. While evaluating the top cloud-based contract lifecycle management (CLM) applications, Rios made an important discovery – SpringCM offers capabilities unavailable on any other platform.

If you have digital transformation initiatives and are only considering data-centric solutions, think again. For managing your most critical business documents and content of all kinds, SpringCM brings a powerful cloud-based document management platform to help companies accelerate revenue, improve compliance and deliver unmatched visibility across your organisation. On-premise apps like Documentum, Open Text and FileNet are expensive and bloated applications. They are also old and outdated.

Digitising contracts for faster deal flow and better governance is a must. The ability to leverage a single document platform to solve for CLM and address multiple document challenges is the power of SpringCM.
