

Automate the generation and negotiation of customised agreements from Salesforce.®

Accelerate your sales process with DocuSign Negotiate for Salesforce.

Sales suffer when document generation, negotiation, and approvals are done manually. Sellers are less productive. Agreements include data-entry mistakes. And deals take longer to close.

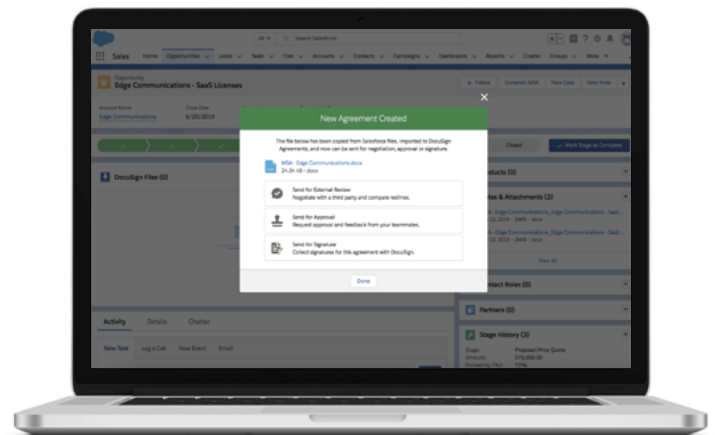

DocuSign Negotiate for Salesforce accelerates the generation, negotiation and approval of customised agreements from Salesforce.

With Negotiate, reps can automatically generate agreements from customer, product, and pricing data in Salesforce. They can also insert or exclude content based on business rules that reference Salesforce data, such as deal size. Reps can then use Negotiate to collaborate with internal and external reviewers for negotiation and approvals. Everything is tracked centrally, with version control and an audit trail of who did what and when. And it's all integrated with Salesforce and with DocuSign eSignature. That means you can automate from generating to negotiating to signing the agreement, then automatically storing it back in Salesforce.

With this new level of automation, you can increase productivity, reduce business risk, and accelerate time to close.
